

Jorge Arroyo

Is a twenty-plus year veteran of the United States Coast Guard (USCG), with 13 years of military service that included previous duties in recreational boating safety, search & rescue, vessel traffic management, polar icebreaking, ship and shore-side operations, and, was the project officer in over two dozen regulatory projects including the 1986 Summer Olympic yachting events and U.S. Vessel Traffic Service (VTS) rules. He has sailed the seven seas and made land-fall on every continent.

Currently he is a Program & Management Analyst in Office of Waterways Management at USCG Headquarters in Washington, D.C and a U.S. delegate to the International Maritime Organization (IMO) Navigation Sub-Committee, member of various working groups of the International Electrotechnical Committee (IEC) and Radio Technical Committee for Maritime Services (RTCM); Vice-Chair of the International Association of Marine Aids to Navigation and Lighthouse Authorities (IALA) AIS Working Group, and, the USCG's regulatory project officer and subject matter expert for Automatic Identification System (AIS).

He obtained a Bachelor of Science from the University of Illinois and Juris Doctor from DePaul Law School in Chicago, Illinois.