

Charles "Chuck" Schue is co-founder and President of UrsaNav, Inc. a diversified engineering and IT solutions company with headquarters in Chesapeake, VA. He is also co-owner of Flowtronics, Inc., a medical technology firm located in Phoenix, AZ. Mr. Schue served for 26 years in the United States Coast Guard, where his expertise was radio navigation systems. Prior to founding UrsaNav, Mr. Schue served as Vice President of Information Technology and Director of Operations for W R Systems, Ltd. He holds Masters Degrees in Electrical Engineering from the Naval Postgraduate School; Engineering Management from Western New England College; and Business Administration from George Mason University. He is also a Certified Quality Engineer. Mr. Schue serves as the President of the Washington, DC Section of the Institute of Navigation and is on the board of the International Loran Association. He is a Private Sector Board Member of the Hampton Roads Military and Federal Facilities Alliance, and is an Advisory Board member of the George Mason University Executive School of Management.