

Speaker/Author Biography:

Tim Hardy is the Head of Engineering at Nautel Limited in Hackett's Cove, Nova Scotia and has been with the company for 15 years. He has been involved in the design of several generations of AM and FM transmitter systems and played a lead role in the introduction of digital signal processing systems to Nautel's transmitters. His recent work includes the theory and design of a new generation of Loran transmitters. He received his Bachelor's degree in Electrical Engineering in 1993 from Dalhousie University in Halifax, Nova Scotia.