

Biographical Information – David Hannah

David Hannah has been engaged with civil and naval radar for 46 years. Previously employed by Kelvin Hughes and attaining the positions of Chief Engineer, Engineering Manager and progressing to Technical Executive, he more recently established a Technical Consultancy specialising in radar performance and Radar Standards. In this role, he has led an international working group as project manager to provide a Test Standard for Shipborne Radar and was able to apply a relevant combination of management, equipment design and seagoing experience.