

Biography

Petr Kačmařík was born in Frýdek-Místek, Czech Republic, in 1978. He received the Ing. (M.Sc.) degree in radio electronic from the Faculty of Electrical Engineering of Czech Technical University in Prague, in 2002. At present, he is an assistant professor at the Department of Radio Electronics at the same faculty and he is currently working toward his Ph.D. His research interest covers GNSS signal processing, especially signal tracking algorithms, their performance assessment and modelling.

